

Install update for copy protection

If you have received a file for an update of the copy protection plug (dongle update), you must carry out a few steps.

If you have received a packed file (ZIP file), you must first unpack it. Please use a function of your operating system to unpack the file. This step is not necessary if you have received an executable file (EXE file). If you now have an EXE file, start the update by double-clicking on the file.

The following window opens. (Compare serial number!)

Then click on "Import licence update".

A message should appear stating that the update has been successfully applied.

You can then delete the EXE file and also the ZIP file. These files are no longer needed after a successful update.
